

AN AUDUBON IMPORTANT BIRD AREA AND A NEW YORK STATE BIRD CONSERVATION AREA.

Constitution Marsh Audubon Center and Sanctuary is a beautiful and irreplaceable wildlife habitat found on the eastern shore of the Hudson River Estuary.

Red-eyed Vireo

This 270-acre tidal wetland is a place where one can discover and explore nature first-hand.

Our goal is to provide the opportunity for visitors to closely observe river life and gain new insights into the natural world.

We hope you have an enjoyable and meaningful visit!

THERE'S ALWAYS A NEW EXPERIENCE AWAITING YOU AS EACH SEASON OFFERS SOMETHING UNIQUE.

Overlook from the trail

Take a spring hike through the woods and listen to migratory songbirds and the rushing waters of Indian Brook.

During the summer, visit the kid-friendly Visitor Center to learn about what's living in the river. Join our naturalists as they lead public canoe trips to see shy breeding birds and share secrets of the Marsh.

Enjoy the stunning views and fall foliage of the Hudson Highlands, and look for waterfowl and other southbound migrants from the 700' boardwalk.

Scope out the cold weather birds visiting our feeders from the comfort of the Center or brave the snowy trail to see wintering Bald Eagles fishing off the shoreline.

A FOUNDING MEMBER OF THE AUDUBON CENTERS NETWORK WORKING IN EDUCATION, SCIENCE AND ADVOCACY.

Our education and interpretation programs are suitable for visiting schools, groups and the public. Program topics focus on conservation, the Hudson River Estuary, and birds and wildlife.

Searching for macroinvertebrates

We also offer seasonal internships for qualified high-school and college students.

Research and restoration projects include breeding marsh bird and songbirds studies, habitat improvement efforts and partnerships with regional organizations and landowners.
